

'Earth Day' in Carmel Valley and Carmel

STUDENTS WALKING along Carmel Valley Road waved signs reading "End Pollution Now" and "Stop Smog" at passing motorists, who generally gave them a friendly wave back.

FIRST PERIOD CLASSES tended to be a little informal last Wednesday as "Earth Day" participants straggled in at various times. John Francis made it all the way to his English class on his bicycle. His bemused classmates in the background are Barbara Ward, Mark Robbins, Judy Ale, Cynthia Leslie, Una Jeffers and Grey Zimmerman.

THE LATEST IN NON-POLLUTING TRANSPORTATION was gleefully demonstrated by John Francis, Kevin Horan and Tom Gardner in some "Earth Day" hi-jinks last week.

HAPPY HIKERS stride onto the high school grounds. Some students living near the Village were up at 4:30 a.m. on "Earth Day" to have enough time for the 10 to 12 mile trek to the Middle School or high school. Showing no signs of sore feet are Heidi Baumgarden, Mark Ziegenbein, Randy Sweet and Peter Lyons. Ziegenbein is wearing an "Earth Day" armband.

CITATIONS were issued to single-passenger cars entering the Carmel High School campus on "Earth Day". This driver was stopped by Bonnie McGowan, Mark Cromander and Linda Scholink and politely reminded that the one man-one car idea is OUT in the era of ecology.

TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sirs:

Please publish this letter because it is very important to many people in Carmel Valley.

I might add that high density hillside developments be required to have their own package sewage plants plus proper drainage of surface water so that people in the floor of the Valley are not damaged.

Thank you,
B. R. STOVER

Attention: Kenneth R. Jones, Executive Officer
Gentlemen;

A sewer line up the Carmel Valley to the Village is not the answer to the pollution problem in the Carmel River. The sewer line proposal is being pushed by promoters, speculators and developers to make a huge profit at the expense of the taxpayers. This is pure greed.

The large sparsely populated area from Hacienda Carmel to Carmel Valley Village is mostly zoned KGB4 Agricultural Residential with a one acre minimum building site. The porous nature of the soil with a high percolation rate makes septic tanks more than adequate to handle the sewage load in this area. Practically none of the effluent from the septic tanks reaches the river in this area. The soil is the best filter known for effluent. To burden the residents of this area with the enormous cost of a sewer line to subsidize some promoter's project is terribly unjust. This is also unfeasible until such time that the density of population of the area is great enough to spread the cost to a reasonable rate. Even with business conditions normal this would take at least 20 years. Unless the entire Carmel Valley is re-zoned to a higher density, a more rapid growth is impossible.

The majority of the residents of Carmel Valley consider the Valley as a rural residential area and they want to keep it that way. We have reached the saturation point for retirement communities, rest homes, condominiums and other high density projects, at least for the foreseeable future. Commercial developments or semi-commercial projects must be kept in the areas zoned for commercial use. This concept agrees with the Carmel Valley Master Plan, the Peninsula Area Plan and the Monterey County Master Plan.

If the people in Carmel Valley Village and Robles del Rio want a sewer system, they should put in their own plant and form their own District just as they have formed their own fire district.

The additional taxes required for the sewer line would bankrupt many of the property owners in the Mid-valley without adding a nickel's worth of value to their land.

We are plagued with many unscrupulous promoters who would like nothing better than to ruin the beauty of Carmel Valley to make a huge profit for themselves.

I have been fighting the pollution of the Carmel River for over 10 years, before pollution became fashionable. I am offering a practical solution to the pollution of Carmel River which will eliminate the main cause of contamination. Prevent people from dumping garbage, trash, litter, insecticides, dead animals and manures of all kinds into the Carmel River. This can be done under existing laws with adequate inspection and enforcement.

It takes courage to do this job correctly. Please let us see some real courage from our officials.

Yours very truly,
MID-CARMEL VALLEY

Is a sewage treatment plant feasible for this area?

Just what do the terms "secondary" and "tertiary" sewage treatment mean? Are they applicable to the Monterey Peninsula? Are they economically feasible?

These questions and many more will be answered in layman's language at a unique public symposium on water pollution control and treatment methods Friday night at Monterey Peninsula College.

The California Regional Water Quality Control Board is sponsoring the symposium, starting at 8 p.m. in the MPC Music Hall, in an effort to clear up confusion and misinformation on this complex, critically important subject.

Principal speaker will be Frank P. Sebastian, senior vice president of Envirotech Corporation, which designed the waste water reclamation system for the largest and most advanced waste treatment project in the nation -- the widely-heralded reclamation project at Lake Tahoe, which was started in early 1968.

He is an internationally-recognized expert on the subject of sewage treatment, and has attended several conferences this year on water pollution and sewage water reclamation.

The idea for the unusual public symposium came from two local members of the CRWQCB, Supervisor Willard Branson of Carmel Valley and Jackson D. Brewer of Carmel Highlands.

Branson said this is an effort "to have the interested citizen, the responsible government official and the design engineer learn together of the possibilities, techniques and costs in waste water treatment.

THE TOWN CRIER

REGISTRATION for kindergarten for the 1970-71 school year will be held at Tularcitos and Carmelo schools on Monday, May 4. To be eligible for kindergarten, a child must be five years old before December 2. When registering children, parents should bring proof of birth and a record of the child's immunizations. State law requires that every child entering school must have had at least one polio shot and must be immunized against measles.

TWO high school students from Carmel Valley, Rosemarie Samora and Mindy Rayne, are on tour with the Monterey County Youth Orchestra this week. Haymo Taeuber, conductor of the Monterey County Symphony, will lead the young musicians as they perform at elementary schools in King City, Gonzales, Chualar and Salinas. It is expected that 3,500 students will hear the orchestra, which is travelling around the county by bus.

LT. GOV. Ed Reinecke will be the featured speaker at a dinner at the Mark Thomas Inn tomorrow night. He will speak on coastal conservation and development of the California coastal zone. The dinner is being sponsored by the Council of Monterey Bay, Inc. (COMB), an environmental organization that is trying to attract ocean-oriented industry and research to the Monterey Peninsula.

The dinner is open to the public. A no-host cocktail hour will begin at 6:30 p.m., followed by dinner at 7:30 p.m. Reservations should be made in advance with Sidney Brooks, 375-5468.

BAY SCHOOL, the "little red schoolhouse" on Highway 1 south of Carmel, will hold its annual beef barbecue and outdoor fair on Saturday, May 9 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. There will be pony rides, games and prizes and a market fair. Admission is free, and proceeds will benefit the Carmel Parent Nursery School.

THE LEAGUE of Women Voters of the Monterey Peninsula has voted to work for measures "to improve and protect water quality and prevent pesticide pollution of the total environment of the Monterey Peninsula." In its annual meeting in Pacific Grove last week, the League also supported the ultimate goal of consolidated treatment of waste water and recycling, secondary sewage treatment as a short-term improvement, and complete elimination of chlorinated hydrocarbon pesticides such as DDT within one year.

Two Carmel Valley women were elected to leadership positions in the group. Mrs. Stuart Maule will serve as treasurer for the coming year, and Mrs. John Sigourney was elected to the board of directors.

THE SPAROLINI Distributing Co. at 1845 Del Monte Blvd., Seaside, has set up a collection center for scrap aluminum cans. The center will pay 10 cents a pound for aluminum cans which are clean and boxed or stacked. This is part of a program established by Kaiser Refractories at Moss Landing to collect aluminum cans for recycling. Individuals or groups wanting to turn in cans should contact the center for additional details.

THAT PLANE that buzzed Carmel Valley one afternoon last week was not -- and we repeat NOT -- in any way connected with pilots Al and Connie Hood or the Carmel Valley airport. Hood said the plane flew up the Valley "breaking every regulation in the book" and then disappeared from view. The pilot later called Al Hood and apologized, explained he had just returned from Viet Nam and was saying "hello" to a friend in the Valley. He had rented the plane in Monterey. Hood said he told the hot-riding pilot never to fly this way again.

And just to show how people react, the plane had barely gone by when Connie Hood received an irate call from an unidentified Valley resident, demanding to know if her husband was responsible for all that noise.

Another pilot who buzzed the Valley a couple of weeks ago received a strong un-welcome when he landed at the airstrip. Hood stopped the plane on the runway with a tractor and proceeded to read the riot act. Properly chastened, the pilot flew off and hasn't been heard from since.

ALL SAINTS' DAY SCHOOL GARDEN FAIR SUNDAY

The 1970 Garden Fair will get underway Saturday morning, at ten o'clock.

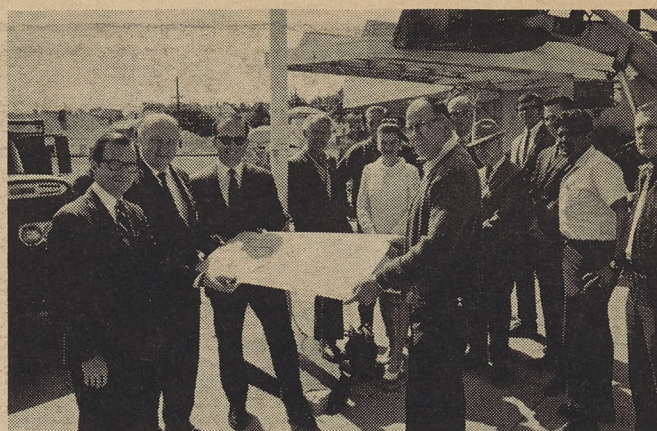

Howard "Bud" Allen has once again opened the grounds of the La Playa Hotel at 8th Avenue and Camino Real in Carmel to the Fair, which is held to benefit the Scholarship Fund of All Saints' Episcopal Day School.

"There will be sales and displays of flowers, plants, tools, barbeque equipment and handcrafts, as well as gardening demonstrations," said Mrs. Ronald Nicholson, chairman of this year's Fair. "Visitors will particularly enjoy Colonel Ken Burns' bonsai demonstrations," she added.

Luncheon will be served poolside at the La Playa from eleven o'clock.

In addition to the regular activities, a number of special events will be held. Children from the Day School will perform folk dances, and there will be a drawing for an oil painting donated by Carmel artist Girard Aken.

Among the many items for sale will be planters made by Mrs. Sidney Williams and other parents of Day School alumni. Donations have also been made by Robert Wenzler, Carmel landscape architect, and French's Glass of Monterey.

Funeral services held Monday for Dr. James J. Short, 75

Funeral services were held Monday for Dr. James J. Short, a Carmel Valley resident since his retirement in 1959. Dr. Short died last Friday after a brief illness at the age of 75.

Born in Manchester, N.Y. he was associate professor of medicine in the New York Post-Graduate Medical School of Columbia University for many years. He also served as attending physician at the Welfare Hospital in New York and as director of medicine in the Riker's Island Hospital and the House of Detention Hospital.

When he moved to California in 1946 he became consulting physician to the Birmingham and Long Beach General Hospitals (VA) as well as senior attending physician at the Los Angeles County General Hospital. He was also director of internal medicine in the graduate school of Loma Linda University.

Dr. Short joined the Naval Reserve in 1934, and served during World War II. He retired with the rank of captain (M.C.) in 1957.

He was a member of the Society of the Sigma Xi, a Fellow of the American Medical Association and the American College of Physicians. He was also a member of the California State Medical Association, the American Heart Association, the Association for the Study of Internal Secretions and the American Diabetes Association.

He was listed by the Directory of Medical Specialists, American Men of Medicine, Who's Who on the Pacific Coast, Cyclopedia of American Biography, American Men of Science, Who's Who in Education and Notable New Yorkers.

An active member of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church, Dr. Short took an active role in the Vacation Bible School and the Sunday School of the Community Church in Carmel Valley.

He is survived by his wife, Ruth Gordon Short; two daughters, Mrs. E.L. Oblander of Glendale and Mrs. R.E. Neall of Berrien Springs, Mich.; two sons, Dr. J. Gordon Short of Salt Lake City and Carlyle Brant Short of Glendale; and six grandchildren.

The family has requested that friends who desire contribute in Dr. Short's memory to their favorite charity or to the Seventh-Day Adventist Mission, Washington, D.C. 20012.

Dear Sir:

Upon reviewing the coverage given us by you and your paper, we would like to express our gratitude for the help you gave us in promoting our exciting and successful Trans Am Championship race this past weekend. The proceeds earned from ticket and concession sales are greatly appreciated by the charities and civic organizations here on the Monterey Peninsula.

The weekend of June 13 and 14 is the next scheduled race at Laguna Seca. This will be the Laguna Seca Continental for the Indy and Formula I type cars. We hope to see you there.

'Carnival' opens at Carmel High Thursday

Dancing girls, clowns, puppet shows, tumblers, Siamese twins, Gypsies, a great magician -- all these will combine with talented actors, vocalists and musicians in Carmel High's Brey Hall, April 30, May 1, 2, 7, 8, 9 to bring you CARNIVAL.

The colorful fun-filled acts of a small touring carnival are a setting for two romances -- one tender the other tempestuous.

The major female roles and that of Paul have been double-cast. Kim Goodhope and Lynn Powers share the role of Lili, with Bob Beckstrom and Brian Bennett as their respective Pauls. Carrie Shook is understudy to Lili. Marco is portrayed by Rick Humm, and his two Rosalies by Nancy Ataide and Leslye Weinfield. B.F. Schlegel is enacted by Chris Hansen, Jacques by Peter Granoff. Those double cast will alternate performances.

The production is under the direction of Diana Hardy, Henry Avila is music director and Sharon Elliot is dance choreographer. The curtain time is 8 o'clock. Reservations can be made by calling 624-8121 between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Jacques Costeau crew films sea otters

Ron Church and Louis Prezelin, cameramen for the television series "The Underseas World of Jacques Cousteau" have ended their stay on the Monterey Peninsula. They have been filming the otters in their natural habitat for a show scheduled next fall.

Ron and Louis spent many weeks in Alaska where they did extensive basic photography. Now, they are finishing the story by filming the otters' natural habitat - specifically the nurseries along the 17-Mile Drive in Pebble Beach. This area has given them a chance to film the mothers with their pups.

Cousteau became aware of the otter's plight through the organization "Friends of the Sea Otter".

Dr. James Mattison of Salinas, an active member of the "Friends of the Sea Otter", is a well-known underwater photographer as well as an expert diver. He has joined the crew on several of the local assignments.

Trout season opens May 2, many streams are stocked

This year 1,167,000 catchable-size trout will be stocked in 43 lakes, reservoirs and streams in 13 counties of the central coastal region, the Department of Fish and Game said today.

Under new regulations which went into effect March 1, most lakes and reservoirs in the 13-county area from northern Mendocino County to southern San Luis Obispo County now are open all year for trout fishing. Stocking of these waters has been underway since the first week in March.

Streams, rivers and some reservoirs in this same area, however, will not open for trout fishing until May 2, and the season for these waters will run through November 15.

Twenty-five of the waters which open on May 2 will be stocked to provide good fishing on opening day, the Department says. Stocking of trout waters in the central coastal region will continue throughout the summer, as long as water conditions are suitable.

Fishing conditions in the streams and rivers which open May 2 are expected to be generally good throughout the region. Weather has been good in recent weeks, and barring heavy rainfall in the last week of the month, anglers should have no problem gaining access to fishing waters.

The following waters which will be open for trout fishing May 2 will be stocked for opening day, according to the DFG:

In Monterey County -- Upper Arroyo Seco, Lower Arroyo Seco, Big Sur River, Carmel River, Los Padres Reservoir and the Upper Nacimiento River. Anglers willing to hike a little will find wild trout in the headwaters of the Big Sur River and Upper Arroyo Seco.

Important meeting on dam Thursday, May 7 sponsored by CVPOA

The Carmel Valley Property Owners Association will sponsor a public hearing on dams, water pollution and conservation of the Carmel River Valley for its general membership meeting Thursday night, May 7.

The quarterly meeting, which is open to the public, will begin at 8 p.m. in the multi-purpose room at Tularecito School.

CVPOA president Ed Lee has invited representatives of the Monterey County Board of Supervisors, the County Flood Control and Water Resources District, the California-American Water Company, the Regional Water Quality Control Board, the California Public Utilities Commission, Monterey Peninsula municipal governments and interested property owners to participate in the discussion.

Congressman Burt Talcott and Assemblyman Bob Wood have also been invited.

Lee said discussion will focus on the advantages and disadvantages of various dam locations as well as the over-all conservation of the Carmel River itself.

It is likely the CVPOA will take a stand regarding dams and water conservation at the end of the meeting.

Tweedledee and Tweedledum
Agreed to wage a battle,
And tear the age-old forests down
To make a plastic rattle

Accordingly they got the saws,
Bulldozers, men on duty.
The Forest Trees had no recourse
They only had their beauty.
The saws bit deep into the bark,
The earth was torn and scarred,
On every side the forest fell,
No wasteful ways were barred.
The hundred years to grow a tree,
Were counted naught by Tweedledee.
"Board feet" which bring a goodly sum,
Are all that count to Tweedledum.

When the forests all are down
Men wildly plan another "town"
More people come than land can hold
But for more gain more "lots" are sold.

The Rhyming Philosopher PRE-EMPTION

He comes here ev'ry morning quite as though
He knows the law, and has a perfect right
To have his breakfast served and then to go
His merry way, curled bushy tail alight
With flicks of red, then up the pine until
He disappears; but hastens back to get
Another walnut from our window sill ---
The only woodland squirrel we have met
Who'll tap upon the pane if we're not there
To place his morning nut into his hands,
And condescendingly receives his share
Of our full store to meet his mate's demands;
His brazen nonchalance reminding us in case
We think we're owners
just because we bought the place.

It's settled! Bus yard to be built at Middle School

Schulte Road residents can relax. There will not be a maintenance garage for school buses behind Carmelo School.

The Carmel school board voted last week to put the bus compound behind Middle School, thus resolving a problem that has simmered for months.

The decision came on a 4-0 vote approving a motion by Trustee Richard Wilsdon to proceed with plans to put the bus compound at the southern edge of the 53-acre Middle School campus. The school district will exercise its legal right to build without obtaining a use permit from the Planning Commission.

To make their decision absolute, school trustees also voted to rescind their original decision to put the bus yard on a two-acre plot behind Carmelo School.

In recommending approval for the Middle School location, Supt. of Schools Harris Taylor told the board that County highway traffic experts had studied both locations and found them roughly equal in terms of safety. However, he noted that if Rio Road is extended in the future, the Middle School setting will have several advantages in terms of traffic flow and overall safety.

The architectural firm of Keeble and Rhoda has already completed drawings for the basic garage. It will now proceed with details on roads, drainage and other on-site needs.

START SOON

Taylor said construction will start "as soon as possible" in the hope the facility will be ready for the opening of school in September. The project will be financed from the district's general operating funds, and is expected to cost about $100,000.

In other action, the school board:

1. Accepted the resignations of three teachers, Mrs. Betty MacGowan and Mrs. Therese Burdick who are retiring from Tularcitos School, and Mrs. Sara Leidig of River School, who is moving to Redding, Calif.

2. Sent two alternative calendars for the 1970-71 school year back to a teacher's negotiating committee. The committee plans to poll teachers to find out which they prefer: a 180-day schedule running from Sept. 10 to June 17, or a 178-day schedule from Sept. 2 to June 11. It was noted that if school starts on Sept. 2, there will be two holidays, Labor Day and Admission Day, falling during the first two weeks of school.

3. Voted a maximum $2 per pupil allotment to allow individual schools to handle the problems of data collection, processing and reporting in whatever manner they wish. Several administrators had expressed dissatisfaction with the $11,500 contract the district now has with RECAP, a San Jose computer center. The new plan, which will cost the district about $6,000 for the coming year, will enable schools to contract directly with a data processor to handle such things as report cards and scheduling, or hire additional clerical help to do this, or use a combination of the two.

4. Awarded the 1969-70 fiscal year audit to the firm of Heckenlaible-Agger and Company for a cost of $3,100.

Where are the investment opportunities in today's market?

The U. S. Economy Carries Most of the Answers

Dean Witter & Co.'s top-ranking economists and investment analysts have just completed an in-depth and realistic appraisal of the business and financial outlook and the current investment climate. Their conclusions - and recommendations - are contained in an eight-page report, "Positive Investment Policy" - Spring Market Outlook 1970.

Available at no cost from any Dean Witter office, this timely report offers an incisive assessment of basic factors influencing today's stock market:

- The Economic Slowdown - How long, and how severe?
- The Recovery - How soon, and to what degree?
- Corporate Profits - Has the worst been foreseen?
- Price Inflation - Is it being curbed?
- Monetary Controls - How much easing is feasible?
- Fiscal Policies - What do they suggest for the economy?

"Positive Investment Policy"® represents a valuable set of guidelines for all serious-minded investors. In addition, the report offers two suggested portfolios, for the conservative long-term investor and the aggressive investor, as well as recommendations on specific securities in selected industries. Summer school planned for Tularcitos and River schools

Tentative plans for summer sessions at Tularcitos and River schools were discussed at the Carmel school board meeting last week.

No academic program will be given for grades 6 through 11, although Carmel High School will again offer summer courses in instrumental music and driver training.

Otherwise, students above the sixth grade interested in summer school will be encouraged to enroll in summer school programs in Pacific Grove or Monterey. The Carmel School district will provide transportation.

Dr. James Halcomb, assistant superintendent for instructional services, reported that 1100 summer school application forms had been sent home with elementary students and 154 returned.

Of these, 95 requested a two-hour developmental reading period. Most of these parents indicated their children were in the first or second grade.

Superintendent of Schools Harris Taylor said this reflects a "normal concern about reading" by parents of younger children. He said some parents undoubtedly feel their children need additional help in reading while others may simply want their children to get off to a strong start and not lose the reading skills they have developed over the long summer.

While first and second graders (or their parents) showed a marked interest in reading, Halcomb said interest at other grade levels was fairly equally divided between mathematics, individual learning projects and science.

Based on this survey, he recommended that summer school be held at Tularcitos and Riverschools for a six-week period from June 22 through July 31.

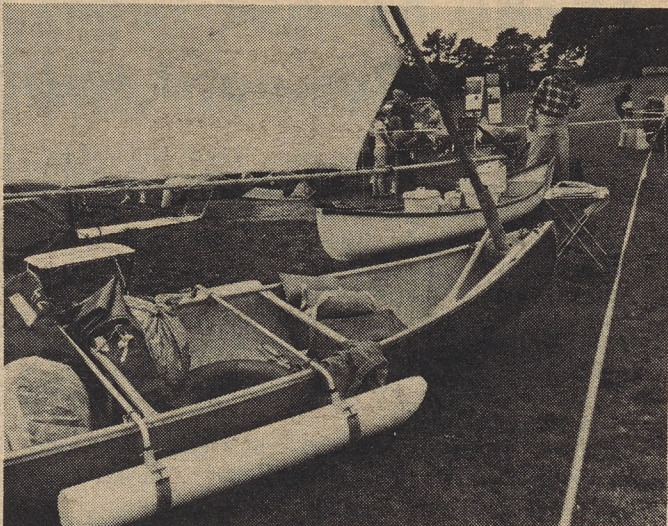

Developmental reading, mathematics, science and individual learning projects would be offered for grades 1-5. The morning classes would be planned to allow children to take swimming lessons at the high school or the Carmel Valley Community pool if they wished.

In addition, the libraries at Tularcitos and River schools would be open daily from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., and children could check out books whether or not they were enrolled in summer school.

It was also recommended that instrumental music instruction be offered twice a week at the two elementary schools for fourth through sixth graders.

Once again a recreation program is planned from 1 to 4 p.m. at Tularcitos, River and Woods schools, offering arts and crafts and games. Drama would also be given at Tularcitos and River.

Halcomb said this tentative program may be expanded or condensed as summer approaches, depending on the amount of interest in summer school. The summer program he described would cost approximately $6,696 or which the district would pay $4,477 and the state would fund the balance.

Outing equipment exhibit at Carmel next Sunday

Planning on a camping trip? You may get some useful ideas about gear for outdoor activities ranging from car camping to backpacking at the Outing Equipment Forum in Carmel on Sunday.

The exhibit, sponsored by Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club, will be spread over the girls' athletic field in Carmel High School, with the public invited to look at the latest in ultra-light equipment and foods.

Experienced hikers, rock-climbers, skiers, cyclists and car campers will demonstrate equipment and answer questions from noon to 4 p.m.

In addition to some home-made gear, the display will include equipment from four commercial suppliers: Himalayan Pack Co., Cannery Row; Gerry Mountain Sports, San Francisco; Sierra Designs, Berkeley; and the Seattle Coop- officially known as Recreational Equipment, Inc.

Photographs of Ventana Chapter outings during the last two years in the Sierras and Los Padres National Forest will be displayed, and a slide show will be screened.

Booths will be set up for display of nature and conservation books, patches, decals, and the famous Sierra Club cup as well. The Los Padres Forest Trail Guide, published by the chapter last year, will also be on display.

WIN BRIDGE TOURNAMENT

Kenneth W. Meyer, bridge instructor at Rippling River Resort in Carmel Valley, and Virginia Nelson, Master Goren Instructor from San Diego, won the Santa Clara Pairs event at the recent San Jose Regional Bridge Tournament. Mr. Meyer and Mrs. Nelson out-distanced the rest of the large field by a substantial margin.

NATIVE PLANT SOCIETY TO MAKE FIELD TRIP TO HASTINGS RESERVE

The Monterey Bay Chapter of the California Native Plant Society is planning a field trip this Sunday to Hastings Natural History Reservation in Carmel Valley. Dr. James Griffin, who lives and works at the University of California Reservation, will lead the tour. All members and interested persons are cordially invited to attend. The tour will rally at the parking lot in front of the Thunderbird in Lower Carmel Valley at 9 a.m. and caravan from there. Bring your lunch.

School budget up 4 percent, but no tax increase seen

The Carmel Unified School District unveiled a tentative $4,034,236 budget for the 1970-71 school year at last week's meeting of the board of education.

This represents an increase of $157,590 over the 1969-70 budget of $3,876,746, caused primarily by the normal incremental pay increases on the salary scale. There is no over-all readjustment of teachers' salaries.

Despite the higher budget, the district intends to maintain the current tax rate of $2.72. It expects the difference to be made up by a 7 per cent increase in the local secured assessed valuation and no increase in the utility roll.

The County Assessor has told the school district that this is a realistic figure. Under the current school tax override, the school district could, if necessary, raise its tax rate to a maximum of $2.92 per $100 of assessed valuation.

The largest outlay is for instruction, $2,273,680. This includes salaries for principals, teachers, some classified employees and text books.

Operation of plant is the next largest category, with a budget of $270,444 for classified salaries and replacement of equipment. This amount is $300 less than what was budgeted for 1969-70.

Also included in the tentative budget are:

Administration, $126,065; Health Services, $26,656; Transportation, $141-855; Maintenance of Plant, $146,921; Fixed Charges (retirement and insurance payments), $230,488; Food Services, $3,670; Community Services, $81,262; Capital Outlay, $132,245; Debt Service, $3,895; and Outgoing Transfers, $4,800. The undistributed reserve is budgeted at $591,855.

Future of new zoning ordinance in Va

BY PAT GRIFFITH

Directors of the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association and County Supervisor Willard Branson vented some strong emotions last week over who did what to the 212-acre hillside conservation ordinance.

Branson had demanded the special meeting after CVPOA directors accused him of giving less than full support to the long-sought zoning measure. After reading through the minutes of the March 24 meeting of the Board of Supervisors, when first three CVPOA-backed amendments and then the hillside ordinance itself were voted down, a tight-lipped Branson looked around the table and declared:

"The fact is you lost the hillside conservation ordinance ... You blew it, pure and simple ... It is unfair of the CVPOA to place the blame on the doorstep of your legislator."

CVPOA President Edwin Lee agreed that Branson should not be blamed for failure of the basic ordinance, but went on to explain: "We were disappointed that you and the other supervisors were precluded from giving objective consideration because of political pressure."

"I can't get those people to go my way every time," Branson replied. "I don't think that would be democratic if I could work back deals like that."

"You know you had been warned. This is the chance you take, and if it's gone, it's gone. I'm as disappointed as you are ... I don't think the board has any right to feel I love the hills and trees any less than you ..."

Director George Lockwood dissented from the position that the CVPOA directors were themselves responsible for the defeat of the hillside zoning ordinance.

"You stated to us on several occasions we had your complete support on these (matters)," Lockwood told Branson. "We had your encouragement ..."

Lockwood argued that the failure of the planning commission to support the three restrictive amendments, which would have required sewer connections under certain conditions, controlled cross-slope cuts for roads and driveways and permitted one-acre zoning on slopes of 15 percent or less, was a major reason the basic ordinance lost.

CLAIMS NO HELP

"If the planning commission had shown any response at all ... we would have gotten it through without the Salinas Valley ranchers on our back," Lockwood declared.

Lee echoed Lockwood's sentiments, saying that Planning Commissioner Edward P. Marcucci of Carmel Valley "was not sympathetic in any way. We might as well have been talking to the floor."

Marcucci, who was sitting in the audience with another planning commissioner, Keith Evans, retorted that the CVPOA directors were "guilty of a certain amount of naivete".

"We worked very hard," he said, "but there was nothing we could do after you brought up the amendments."

Another sharp exchange took place between Branson and John Woolfenden, who was attending the meeting as a private citizen and Carmel Valley property owner and not as a Monterey newspaper reporter.

Woolfenden said his main criticism was that neither Branson nor any other supervisor spoke out in favor of the basic hillside ordinance at the March 24 meeting, which was well attended by Salinas ranchers alarmed that the ordinance might affect their property values.

"Nobody got up and told them it didn't apply to them,"

DISCUSSING THEIR WIDELY DIFFERING VIEWPOINTS after the CVPOA directors' meeting were Dr. Edward P. Marcucci, vice chairman of the planning commission;

Edwin B. Lee, president of the CVPOA; and Robert G. Flause, a Salinas Valley landowner who worked to defeat the hillside conservation ordinance.

Woolfenden said. "I didn't hear anybody defend the basic ordinance."

Branson replied that at other meetings he had told the ranchers they had nothing to worry about.

"You weren't at the meeting when we could have got this amendment through," he said.

Conversation turned to a more positive approach when director Frank Bresk raised the question of what happens next.

HAS NO ANSWERS

"I don't have an answer," Branson said. "I'm searching for ways. We have time enough to come up with something before the interim ordinance is up, provided I can get it renewed."

Branson asked the CVPOA to give him 60 days to see if he could come up with a new proposal. He said one possibility might be for Carmel Valley to adopt the SC (scenic conservation) ordinance already on the books. This is the ordinance under which the Big Sur coast was zoned for 10 acres minimum, and it could be used to establish a 2½ acre minimum zoning for Carmel Valley hillsides.

Because this ordinance is already in existence, there presumably would be no opposition from landowners outside Carmel Valley if it were applied here.

Lee asked the board to consider hiring an outside planning consultant to draft an entirely new measure for submission to the planning commission and board of supervisors.

Planning Commissioner Keith Evans raised another question -- just how widespread is the support for the CVPOA's hillside conservation effort?

"I don't believe and I have never heard that there is anything in the zoning law that will allow you to impose density against the will of the people", Evans stated. "Outside this room I have heard no support for 15 per cent, which is what obviously killed the whole thing ... I'm not sure you have support for your policies. I think it's interesting you never got one vote for 15 percent on the Planning Commission ... I think your 15 percent density amounts to confiscation of most people's property rights."

Evans said the 10-acre zoning of Big Sur coastal property was the most controversial issue ever placed before the planning commission. In that case, he said, those who wanted the restrictive zoning won the support of large landowners, and were willing to compromise on some things to get the zoning approved.

NO COMPROMISE?

Evans said he had not seen any willingness to compromise on the part of the CVPOA directors.

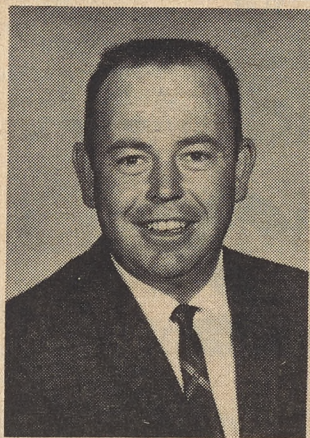

When asked by John Dowdakin if the Planning commission considered numbers of people or numbers of acres in determining "majority opinion," Evans answered "It's difficult to define. If the planning commission is convinced a majority of people in an area want it (zoning), it's not afraid to overrule a quite substantial minority."

He said there is always a problem when people move into an area, buy perhaps one to five acres and then develop a proprietary interest in all the surrounding property.

"I can't see taking people's rights to develop their property away," he declared.

Edward F. Hogan, developer of Hidden Hills at the top of Laureles Grade, denounced the CVPOA for citing his development as an example of what they don't want in Carmel Valley.

Hogan said he has spent thousands of dollars planning his development, and blamed the County Road Department for

Valley debated at CVPOA meeting

A PENSIVE JOHN WOOLFENDEN ponders arguments supporting and denouncing the CVPOA's handling of the hillside zoning ordinance. Woolfenden, who was not reporting last Thursday's special meeting, had a sharp exchange with Supervisor Willard T. Branson over the March 24 Board of Supervisors meeting at which the ordinance was voted down 3-2.

insisting on road standards that cause hillside scarring.

"I want to make money. That's my business and that's not a dirty word," he said, angrily shaking the microphone of his tape recorder at the directors. "I could give you a lot of help if you wanted it," he added.

SHARP EXCHANGE

He was interrupted by Mrs. Marian Weygers complaining that homes in Hidden Hills could be seen from Laureles Grade, a scenic highway. "Pretty funny clustering," she said.

"What an asinine statement," Hogan snapped. "If you want that land, buy it."

Mrs. Weygers later explained she felt there is more at stake than natural beauty, citing the danger of noise and air pollution coming from more traffic and greater density. She said she felt it was a case of a few large landowners opposing the interests of many people.

Mrs. L.C. Roller, who owns some hillside property, politely but firmly disagreed.

"I feel people are entitled to anything they can buy," she said. "If people want to look at the green hills -- buy them."

She said that when she is on her property, she can look down and see some unattractive sights on the floor of the Valley.

"I think people who pay taxes on hillside property are entitled to justice, and they're not getting it," she said.

Lockwood countered that small property owners have rights too, such as the right not to have sewage or silt washing down on their property from hillside homes.

Mrs. Richard Gayman noted that 2½ acre zoning posed a problem for several long-time Valley residents who have sacrificed to hang onto a few acres of hillside property with the thought that one day the land would pass on to their children.

She said that if this zoning were passed, her parents would not be able to divide their land between herself and her two sisters.

"So naturally, we oppose it -- we have to," she said.

The meeting ended with a strong blast at the CVPOA from Robert G. Flause, a non-Carmel Valley landowner and vocal opponent of the original hillside zoning ordinance.

Flause said that if the CVPOA insists on HC zoning, the large property owners will be hurt.

"We do want quality zoning and aesthetics," he insisted. "If you hadn't been so obdurate, you'd have all these things you said you wanted ... Why should the onus be on the large property owner to always protect himself? Some of us have owned our property for many years."

Flause, who owns property in Corral de Tierra, said that some people there are waiting for approval of the hillside conservation ordinance so they can apply similar restrictions there.

He urged the directors to set up a representative committee, to include large landowners from the Salinas area as well as Carmel Valley, to hash out an ordinance acceptable to all.

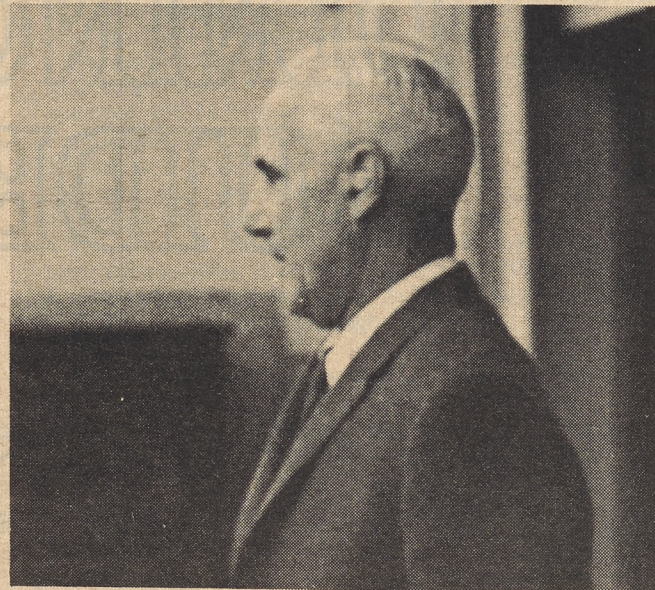

Director Stanley T.B. Johnson and several directors tentatively agreed, but no committee was named.

ONE OF THE ANGRIEST SPECTATORS was developer Edward F. Hogan. Hogan charged the CVPOA ignored the legitimate interests of developers and was particularly bitter because his Hidden Hills development had been criticized in the past. Seated here next to Hogan is Michael Read of Robles del Rio. In the center in the second row are Mr. and Mrs. Al Hood, who recently leased the Carmel Valley airport.

PLANNING COMMISSIONER KEITH EVANS didn't win any friends among CVPOA directors when he contended that allowing one-acre zoning on land only up to a 15 percent grade "amounts to confiscation of most people's property rights."

Annual flower and garden show planned for May 16

The Carmel Valley Garden Association will hold its annual flower and garden show on May 16 from 1 to 7:30 p.m. The theme of this year's show will be Viva California. All amateur gardeners are invited to compete with flower arrangements, potted plants or cut flowers. There will be plants and cuttings for sale. Admission is free and there will be door prizes. For information about the flower arrangements, call Mrs. Stanley Roberts at 659-2322.

JUNIOR GROUP

The Junior Group of the Carmel Valley Trail & Saddle Club have selected Sue Schetter and Kristin Swanson to compete for the honor to represent the club as a contestant for Sweetheart of the Salinas California Rodeo. Both girls, as well as being excellent horsewomen, meet the high standards required in scholarship, personality and well rounded individuals.

New officers for the year are: President, David Raynes; Vice President, Wendy Swanson; Secretary-Treasurer, Kris Swanson; Parade Chairman, Kathleen Menke.

The date for the Juniors' Annual Spring Show has been set for June 28. Some of the committees have already been formed: Fred Nason, Jr., announcer; Gail Nason, snack bar; Ted Sherman, trail course; Members living on Garzas, watering the grounds.

The Color Guard whose members are Dani Kunz, Christy Klump, Kim Murphy, Sally Bennett and Carol Crockett, won first place at the Spring Show at Santa Cruz last Sunday. These girls are to be congratulated. They have spent many hours after school perfecting their routine.

Other girls have been competing at outside shows...and bringing home ribbons. Kim Murphy, at the Cow Palace, a ninth place in Hunt Seat Equitation; Kim also won two firsts and two seconds at Santa Cruz; Sally Bennett won a 2nd, 3rd and 5th at Santa Cruz and Patience Prine won two 1sts at Tulare, an Arabian horse show.

PYRAMID CLUB

Mrs. Don Sherman has initiated a series of luncheons, the object, funds to furnish the new club house.

The Pyramid Club began at a luncheon at her home several months ago. Each guest paid a small fee for a delightful afternoon of lunch and bridge. The seven guests invited were each obligated to reciprocate with a luncheon of her own to further "The Pyramid."

RANDOM RIDERS

From the initial Pyramid Club, the "lunching ladies" added morning trail rides with the hostess of the day providing a picnic. There have been five rides so far, the last having 17 riders. The landowners in the Valley are to be thanked for so graciously giving their permission to this group.

The first ride began and ended at the T. & S. Club grounds. The second, Saddle Mountain Ranch; third, Hidden Hills; fourth, the Fleming property; fifth, Ray Hackworth's training stables. The group is getting so adept at trailering that now they plan to go further afield.

TENNIS

The Tennis Courts have been completed for some time with lots of individual play.

The Tennis committee, under the chairmanship of Nancy Rushmer, is ready to begin the Saturday clinics. These will begin May 2nd with Jerry Hart as director. There will be three age groups in two categories; beginners, intermediates. Coffee and soft drinks will be available at the snack bar. In all, four clinics will be held on consecutive Saturdays. These are open to Members and their guests.

Juan Serrano has risen to heights as Flamenco guitarist

The fantastic ascent of Juan Serrano from accompanist for a group of dancers in a night-club in Madrid a few years ago to his position today as one of the worlds' leading soloists in Flamenco guitar is remarkable to say the least. His young age, his good looks, his modesty, his supreme talent, his devotion to his instrument and his intelligence have all contributed to the speed of his success. This personal chemistry, good luck and the overwhelming tributes by critics have produced for the world a magnificent Flamenco artist.

His first teacher, Antonio Serrano, was his father who started his lessons as a child in his native Cordoba, Spain. Now, in turn, Serrano spends his leisure hours teaching his young son, Juan Antonio, to play Flamenco rhythms while his daughter, Lidia, dances ... and so, we begin a new generation, which given opportunity and proper cultivation might become tomorrows concert artists.

LAST CONCERT OF SEASON BY MONTEREY SYMPHONY

The final concert of the 1969-70 season of the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra is scheduled for Sunday, May 17 at Monterey Peninsula College, and Tuesday, May 19 at Sunset Auditorium, Carmel.

Celebrating Beethoven's 200th anniversary as well as Monterey's Bi-Centennial, Haymo Tauber, Music Director and Conductor chose the joyous Beethoven Ninth Symphony to close the season.

The 90-voice Monterey Peninsula Choral Society and soloists Meg Broughton, soprano, Glenna DeWeese, contralto, Paul Raabe, tenor and James Tippey, bass, are the featured artists in the Symphony's presentation.

The Choral Society is well-known to the musical community for its performances this season of Haydn's "Theresa Mass" at Carmel Mission Basilica in December and his "Creation" sung on Palm Sunday at the Naval Postgraduate School.

Tickets are available for the Monterey concerts and although the Sunset series is sold out, there may be a few available from subscribers who cannot attend. Call the Symphony office, 624-4125, for information.

Film on China postponed to Saturday night

"China", a 2-hour color documentary which was originally scheduled for Friday, April 24th, at the Sunset Auditorium, but had to be cancelled because of mechanical difficulties, has been rescheduled for 8:15 p.m. Saturday, May 2.

The Explorama presentation will be narrated in person by its photographer and producer, Danish author and explorer Jens Bjerre. Bjerre made two journeys to the Communist Mainland in the production of the film.

New matinee policy at Valley Cinema

Yes, you read it right! "Adults Must Be Accompanied by Child" is the new policy at the Valley Cinema, in the Mid-Valley Shopping Center, for all Kiddie Matinees on Saturdays and Sundays at one o'clock.

John Reagles, manager of the theatre, said the new policy was adopted to assure seats for the kiddies. Seems a lot of adults were slipping in on weekends to see the colorful attractions the Cinema offers (probably those whose TV sets are broken).

CIRCLE THEATRE TO AUDITION FOR MUSICAL 'ANYTHING GOES'

The Community Theatre of the Monterey Peninsula announces auditions for actors, singers and dancers to perform in "Anything Goes", Cole Porter's mad-cap musical of the 30's. "Anything Goes" will be the first show of the 1970 Circle Theatre season of musical comedy theatre, opening June 24.

The Golden Bough Players Company is open to all who wish to audition for roles. No role has been pre-cast. The auditions will be held at the Circle Theatre, Casanova between 8th & 9th, Carmel, on Sunday at 2:30 p.m., and again on Monday at 7:30 Soloists trying out for major roles may bring their own music, or a simple melody will be provided. Chorus and dance auditions will be held in groups.

The score of "Anything Goes" features such Cole Porter tunes such as Blow, Gabriel, Blow; I Get a Kick Out of You; It's Lovely; Take Me Back To Manhattan; Friendship; Let's Misbehave; All Through The Night; and Anything Goes.

The production will be staged by Community Theatre Managing Director Michael Keller, with music direction provided by Tom Fordham. "Anything Goes" will alternate weekly, Wednesday through Sunday with Leonard Bernstein's "Wonderful Town". Auditions for Wonderful Town will be announced at a later date. Rehearsals for "Anything Goes" will begin May 17th. For further information please call Mr. Keller at 624-2669.

UNDER THE OAKS & AMONG THE CACTI

By Mildred Hattan

THERE IS THE ROSE BOWL, the Cotton Bowl, the Sugar Bowl ... and now Carmel High School has the KEY BOWL where all students and faculty were asked to drop their car keys and keep the parking lot clear of all forms of transportation with the exception of horses and bicycles for last week's Earth Day ... a group of 50 students walked up Highway 1 hill to the Carmel High Campus behind the bumper to bumper traffic commuting to work each morning in the 8:30 rush ... two students became physically ill from the fumes from the endless line of cars ... a Village teacher hitchhiked to school ... Enid Rauber and Terri Hendrix rode bikes from the Village to the campus and back that week ... students hiking beside the road admonished motorists to "WALK" or "GIT A HORSE!" ... only the Phantom Oak Moth knows where a Valley coed who fearing reprisals hid her car after taking a bicycle out of the back and puffed laboriously into very nearby MPC ... T'was the same Moth who spotted a Valley Mon endangering hairdo and manicure as she loaded the collection of trash gathered by her daughter and friend into their beautiful convertible ... armbands, badges and posters of green (there hadn't been THIS much green around since St. Patrick's Day) ... a psychedelic pink and black sign on the Salinas High lawn read, "We are destroying the earth that mothered us. Please help save her ..."

The spotlight on pollution was sensational but we fear like the weather everyone will talk about it but nobody will do anything about it. Eventually youngsters in order to know the earth as we know it now will be assigned Lin Yutang's "Our Planet is a Very Good Planet" ...

"There is the alternation of night and day, and morning and sunset, and a cool evening following upon a hot day, and a silent and clear dawn presaging a busy morning, and there is nothing better than that.

There is the alternation of summer and winter, perfect in themselves, but made still more perfect by being gradually ushered in by spring and autumn, and there is nothing better than that.

There are the silent and dignified trees, giving us shade in summer and not shutting out the warm sunshine in winter, and there is nothing better than that.

There are flowers blooming and fruits ripening by rotation in the different months, and there is nothing better than that.

There are cloudy and misty days alternating with clear and sunny days and there is nothing better than that.

There are spring showers and summer thunderstorms and the dry crisp wind of autumn and the snow of winter and there is nothing better than that.

There are peacocks and parrots and skylarks and canaries singing inimitable songs, and there is nothing better than that.

There is the zoo, with monkeys, tigers, bears, camels elephants, crocodiles, horses, dogs ... and more variety and ingenuity than we ever thought of, and there is nothing better than that.

There are rainbow fish, swordfish, electric eels, whales, clams, turtles ... and ... more variety and ingenuity than we ever thought of, and there is nothing better than that.

There are magnificent redwood trees, fire-spouting volcanoes, magnificent caves, majestic peaks, undulating hills, placid lakes, winding rivers and shady banks, and there is nothing better than that.

The menu is practically endless to suit individual tastes, and the only sensible thing to do is to go and partake of the feast and not complain about the monotony of life."

DIANE AND RON ANGLE with their sons, Randy and Jeffrey, were in the Valley recently on business. Ron who is with AT&T commutes to the City from the home they have purchased in Concord.

"THE ANSWER to a decorating chairman's prayer", agreed Mrs. John Pomeroy, to have not only the prop department of the White Oak's Theater from which to select stunning crystal chandeliers and velvet paneling but also "in the package", talented Gale Peterson of the staff available for consultation. The occasion was the Theater Guild's third annual Casino Night held this year in the theater under the chairmanship of Mrs. Stephen Thigpen.

Others assisting with the night in Monte Carlo were Mrs. Christopher Spaulding in charge of libations; Mrs. Dick Thornburg, Hors'd Ouvres, Mrs. Oliver White who designed the playing card invitations, and Mrs. Leon Mink, Guild president in charge of the gaming tables. One hundred members and their guests attended the formal affair.

"AN OLD OAK LEAF CLUSTER" to the Carmelo School advanced band and chorus who appeared last Thursday at the Carmel Convalescent Hospital. Their musical presentation brought a great deal of pleasure to their shut-in friends.

A "CLUSTER", too, to the Carmel Valley Lionettes and their continuing interest in the patients. The six elderly friends the Lionettes are currently remembering on special occasions were so delighted with the beautiful Easter Basket each one received. Two diabetic patients had specially packaged diabetic candies and cookies and all had cunning cotton chicks, stuffed rabbits, and beautifully dyed and decorated eggs from Dorothy Dick down at the Carmel Valley Egg Farm. The patient's birthday celebrations continue with last month's cake going to an octogenarian, Mr. John de Serpa.

NEXT TO THE ASTRONAUTS, the biggest news item last week was the result of the announcement made by a Valley-ite of his resignation as superintendent of the Monterey Unified School District. Donald Woodington of La Rancheria has been with the Peninsula schools since September of 1965. He was formerly superintendent of Inglewood City Unified School District. His future plans call for devoting full time to a business dealing in promotion of recreational supplies and equipment. The firm is owned by the Valley-ite and his brother, Neil, of New Brighton, Minn. Mrs. Woodington, the former Eileen Hein, is a counsellor at the Carmel High School. The couple purchased the home at 59 La Rancheria formerly the residence of the Edward Herds.

REV. J. BERNHARD BRETHEIM who has served as pastor of St. Philip's Lutheran Church left last week to become the pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Holy Trinity in Long Beach. Accompanied by Mrs. Bretheim and their children they took with them best wishes for their future from the many friends made during their stay. Reviewing briefly a few of the happenings during his Valley assignment Rev. Bretheim listed: the building of a new church on Carmel Valley Road between Schulte and Meadows Roads; 200 persons have been baptized, 25 have been confirmed; 39 couples have been married and there have been seven funerals. Said Rev. Bretheim in his farewell address, "It has been my privilege to preach and teach the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ in this place of beauty and many blessings ... So, as I trust this young Church to you its members and to the all-sufficient Lord and Savior of the Church, let me say again, 'I thank my God for you' ..." Interim pastor at St. Philip's will be the Rev. Bernhart L. Hansen of Boulder Creek who is presently taking a course in Pastoral Clinical Training at the U. of Cal Medical Center in San Francisco.

A LADY WHOSE FRIENDSHIP GARDEN was filled with as many devotees as the profusion of blossoms enmassed each season in her spacious gardens called "Temple Oaks" died last week in Salinas. Mrs. William (Ruth) Temple had for years as the Editor of Western Ranch and Home Garden Notebook in the Saturday edition of the Salinas Californian advised, encouraged, and influenced the beautification of the entire Monterey county.

She appeared frequently as guest speaker at various civic and garden club meetings and worked tirelessly to promote community garden shows stressing the involvement of young people as exhibitors. The annual garden tour of San Benancio homes traditionally ended with tea at Temple Oaks where visitors were greeted personally by the vivacious hostess who found time to answer each of their many questions about unusual plants discovered along the shaded paths at the home on Paseo Hermoso. Some of the choicest spots in gardens in the Valley on the Peninsula and in the Salinas Valley came from slips started in Ruth's green houses.

A native of Rider, N.D. she lived in Pacific Grove from early childhood until 1934 when married 5 years the young Temples moved to Salinas. In 1948 with her husband she

HOME FROM A GLORIOUS THREE MONTHS spent as residents in a charming home in a Mexican coconut grove ... swimming every day, reading, relaxing, no telephones, and nothing on the daily schedule except for the trip twice a day to Manzanillo Village to purchase freshly baked tortillas and select from an endless variety of gorgeous fruit ... are Elizabeth and Adolph Friedenthal of Horizon Way. Their Shangri-la located 100 miles south of Puerto Vallarta has already been discovered by that Tin Mogul famous for his hotels and a high rise is currently under construction. The Valley-ites followed frequently in the wake of the bull dozers and picked up numerous treasures of Pre-Colombian artifacts.

"Serenity" is seldom read in the stars of the Colonel and his lady which is typified by the following incidents. They had heard a great deal about a small island inhabited by 600 people whose livelihood is fishing. Deciding to explore, they hired a boatman who took them the 20 mile distance from the mainland in his outboard motor boat and abandoned them! They found their island paradise a cluster of dirty houses built in the center, pigs in control of the shoreline, and electricity not expected until later this year. They were only too delighted to find another boat owner willing to take them off only to meet their original boat returning. An international incident very nearly occurred!

Their other adventure was a trip they decided to take by train to visit an Indian Reservation of the Tamar Indians located in a National Forest where the Coppser Canyon (like Grand Canyon) is found. Leaving the station at Los Mochis they set out for Chihuahua on rails which had taken five years to build. The scenery through pine forests was gorgeous and they were thoroughly enjoying their trip until in the town of Loreto they were stopped and told that there would be a delay because of a train wreck up ahead ... two freight trains had met head-on and telescoped ... one carried liquid sugar ... and the other one carried rocks. The wait until 1:00 in the morning while train crews frantically built track around the rocky-goey mixture was boring and passengers became very hungry. The small village boasted only one tiny restaurant where the first customers were able to purchase gum and crackers for one peso, the next found the price had increased to two pesos and the next group discovered that INFLATION had come to Loreto! The Freidenthals continued their trip without incident. Their climb to the 9,000 foot level (and 9 degree temperatures) was memorable and mysterious through moonlight.

LILACS, PURPLE AND WHITE, grown at the Panetta Road home of the hostess, Mrs. John Black, decorated the tables at the April dinner meeting of the Carmel Valley Lionettes. Rippling River Resort was the site where names of new officers proposed by the nominating committee were accepted unanimously by the membership. They included president, Mrs. Philip Wright, vice president, Mrs. Art Fosso, secretary, Mrs. William Dick, treasurer, Mrs. Gerald Carpenter, Tail twister, Mrs. Peter Garneau. Two new board members are Mrs. Herman Tedrow and Mrs. Charles Gansel who will serve with Mrs. Gary Kitt and Mrs. Leroy Dufur returning for their second term. The new officers will be installed June 28. Guest speaker, Ralph Kahl, Biology teacher at Carmel High School spoke on the current course on drugs compiled by Lockheed being presented to students. He was assisted by Peter Glod. The birthday of Mrs. Leroy Dufur was celebrated and the door prize presented to Mrs. Tony August of Carmel.

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL

Mrs. Don Johnson has plans well underway for the 12th annual Vacation Bible School to be sponsored June 15-26 at the Carmel Valley Community Chapel. The theme for the 1970 program will be "Discover Christ Where You Are" and will be coordinated in film, craft, and worship for preschoolers through senior high.

"Let's Learn about God and his son" is the title of the pre-kindergarten group. Teachers for the 4-year-old and older will be Mrs. Calvin Garner and Mrs. Gerald Cooke.

The Kindergarten class will study "My Friend Jesus" under the guidance of Mrs. William Russell, Mrs. Robert Arna and Lindy Doud.

Mrs. Dale Glasco and Lydia Bresk will instruct the Primary Department (grades 1 and 2) in "Discovering God's Love."

The Middlers (3rd and 4th graders) will learn of "Great Discoveries in God's World" with instructors, Mrs. Lloyd Swanson and Mrs. William Farr.

Mrs. Frank Bresk will lead the Juniors in "Jesus Christ, My Saviour". (Grades 5 and 6 make up this group).

Mrs. James Short, Capt. (ret.) Phillip Mothersill and Mrs. Neil Fern will assist with the Senior Highs.

There will be refreshments which students and parents help to provide. Mrs. Duane Graham will be in charge of the kitchen.

Children planning to attend the Swimming lessons at the Community Pool may register for Bible School for one week. Registration blanks will be mailed out soon.

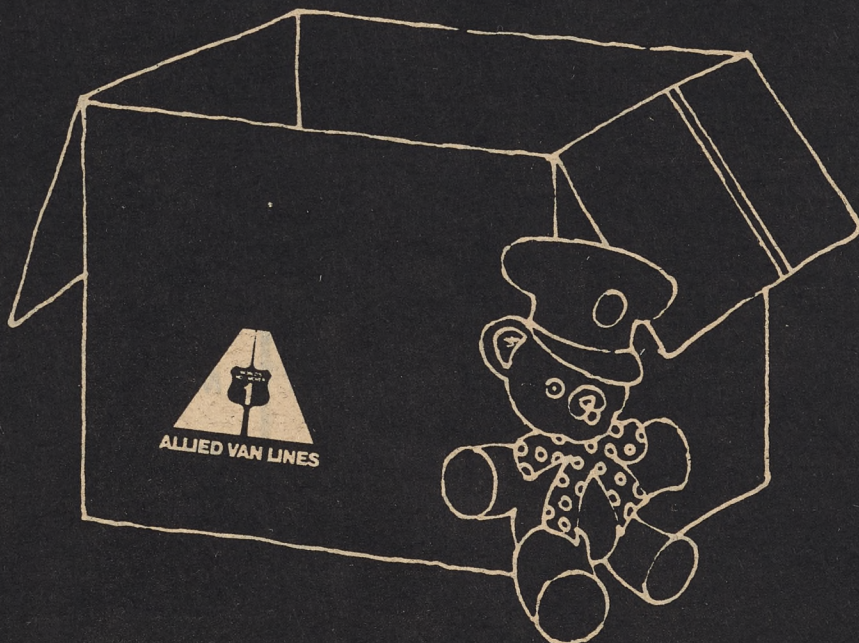

A meeting for all teachers and their assistants will be held May 5 at 8:00 p.m. at Fellowship Hall to complete plans for the two week session. Teachers will receive their teaching material and visual aids. They will also view a filmstrip on Vacation Bible schools dealing with the use of selected materials. For more information call Mrs. Johnson, 659-2431.

FIDELITY CLUB MEETS THURSDAY

The monthly Fidelity Club get-together will be held on Thursday evening, in the social rooms of the Community Chapel. Each is asked to bring food and table service; meal is at 6 p.m. For a fun program each person should bring a gift -- chosen from "treasures" already possessed. It should be wrapped so as to be unrecognizable by shape or feel of package.

Pollution directive not to affect widening of C.V. Road

The California Department of Public Works last week ordered that all future freeway routes be carefully studied for the possible air and noise pollution they might generate.

Public Works Director James A. Moe said the new requirements are the most encompassing environmental safeguards ever applied to a state highway construction program. In every case, he said, study results will be presented at public hearings that will be held well in advance of final design decisions.

Although the new policy is effective immediately, it apparently will have no bearing on the planned widening of Carmel Valley Road to four lanes.

Monterey County Road Commissioner Bruce McClain

noted that while he had not seen the new directive, it apparently applies only to freeways, and a four-lane Valley road would be an expressway, not a freeway.

The difference, he said, is that a freeway has frontage roads and no direct access from private property. The definition of an expressway is somewhat broader, and can include four-lane roads that do, or don't, have private driveways opening onto them.

"As far as I know, no standards have been set up for non-freeways," McClain said.

As for Carmel Valley, he said, "It doesn't really matter if the road is two lanes wide or four lanes, that's where the traffic goes. There's only one Valley, and that's where the road is."

McClain said that while he is not an expert on smog, he does think an argument could be made that intermittent traffic spaced out on a four-lane highway would generate less smog than a steady line of traffic moving along a two-lane road.

"In terms of noise, I don't think people really know what they're doing yet," he said. "I don't think they have the instruments to measure decibel levels accurately outdoors."

NO STUDY HERE

McClain said that for all these reasons he doubted that there would be any studies or public hearings on possible air or noise pollution resulting from a four-lane expressway through Carmel Valley.

According to the County road department's five-year plan, the Valley road will be widened to four lanes as far east as Via Petra in 1971-72.

Work should extend farther inland in 1972-73. Just how far it might get is indefinite now, McClain explained, because the department does not know what highway funds will be available.

The new environmental policy on freeway construction applies to routes already adopted by the California Highway Commission but still to be designed by state engineers. Although it does not apply to existing freeways, the Department of Public Works expects to develop a spot improvement program to correct existing deficiencies on a priority basis.

Design plans that can best eliminate air and noise pollution will be developed with the assistance of private consultants, State Air Resources Board personnel and employees of local air pollution control districts.

Traffic to be slowed on Laureles Grade during next two months

Traffic on Laureles Grade may be subject to delays of up to 15 minutes during construction work on Laureles Grade through the next two months. Because of safety considerations, it will be necessary to confine traffic to one lane through the work area, which is about one half mile south of the summit. Flagmen equipped with two-way radios will be stationed at each end of the work to direct traffic. Although traffic will not be affected before 8:00 a.m. and after 4:30 p.m., motorists are requested to drive with caution in this area at all times.

The work is being done in conjunction with the Carmel Valley-Miramonte Road project and will solve a slide problem on Laureles Grade.

Traffic will be controlled by flagmen with walkie-talkies while heavy equipment and dump trucks move 100,000 yards of earth from a hillside along the Grade down to the riverbed where the new stretch of Carmel Valley Road is being constructed.

A spokesman for Granite Construction Company said the dirt is being taken from a slide area about 1700 feet long, thus accomplishing two jobs at one time. When the project is finished, the hillside cut will be set back farther from the roadway, and there will be a dirt "bench" to prevent any future slides from blocking the road.

County Road Commissioner Bruce McClain said that the end result will make the Grade neither "any more nor any less scenic" than it is now.

"They're not putting in a new cut, they're just laying the present one back a ways," he explained.

PADRE TRAILS CAMERA CLUB MEETS MAY 7

"Journey to Yesterday", a medal winner in the Photographic Society of America's Color Slide Travelog Competition for 1969, will be shown at the meeting of the Padre Trails Camera Club, on Thursday, May 7, in Brey Hall, at Carmel High School. This is a documentary of village life in New Guinea with unusual close-ups of natives in their tribal adornment and an informative view of life in their civilization which is our own forgotten yesterday. The slides and taped commentary were made by Edna Laudau of St. Louis, Missouri.

The club contest on May 7 will be pictorial color slides for P.S.A. competition. Members are reminded, too, to bring slides for the P.S.A. Hospital Project.

Meetings and membership in the club are open to all color camera enthusiasts. For further information please call Thomas Hardy, president, 375-8586 or address him care of Padre Trails Camera Club, Box 4994, Carmel.

THE MEDITERRANEAN MARKET at DEL MONTE CENTER recommends for your pleasure their favorite recipe for Eggplant Parmesan. They'll be happy to grate the cheese for you but, if possible, it would save you time to phone in advance.

EGGPLANT PARMESAN

Slice 1 large eggplant in 1/2" slices, placing them in a bowl of slightly salted cold water (to prevent darkening). Drain before using. Heat some olive oil in a large frying pan -- fry eggplant on both sides till golden brown, adding more oil as necessary -- drain separately on paper towels. You'll need a large can of tomato sauce. In a large baking dish pour only enough sauce to cover bottom of dish, place a small clove of garlic in a corner, make a single layer of eggplant slices, sprinkle generously with grated parmesan cheese, some freshly chopped rosemary and sweet basil, salt and pepper. Repeat until all eggplant & sauce used. Place another clove of garlic on the top. Bake uncovered at 350 deg., 45 min. to an hour.

THE MEDITERRANEAN MARKET is open daily except Sundays, 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. and until 9:30 p.m. Mon., Thurs. & Fri. Phone 373-0555. Free Delivery.

How to wash your clothes without using detergents

Something was accidentally left out of last week's environmental news in the Outlook -- the recipe for getting clean clothes without using detergents. In 1969 detergents were responsible for dumping two billion pounds of phosphates into the nation's waters.

Here's how to fight the foam and still get those whiter whites:

First get rid of the built-up residue of detergents in your clothes by running wash through the regular cycle with only 1 cup of phosphate-free washing soda added to the water. If necessary, repeat the process until the water is sudsless.

From then on, proceed as follows:

Put clothes in the washing machine first, then water. Add 1 cup to 1 1/2 cup of washing soda. When it dissolves, add your soap product -- approximately 1 1/2 cups for a front loading machine and 1 2/3 cups for a top loading machine. Because water hardness is a determining factor, you may have to adjust the amount of soap and soda slightly. Use the suds as your guide. The object is to maintain a 2-inch head of suds throughout the wash cycle. If you have too many suds, cut down on the soap. If too few, add a bit more soap.

If your water is very hard, add 1/4 cup of washing soda to the first rinse water.

By following these procedures, every washday at your house can be an "Earth Day" as well.
